From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 16. &c.

Naples, October 23.

Cardinal Grimani our Viceroy has sent for all the Archbishops and Bishops of the Kingdom to attend him, and answer for their Threats to excommunicate the Receivers of the sequester'd Revenues of absent Ecclesiasticks. The Imperial Regiment of Wetzell, with some Italian Troops, are ready to embark to be transported to Catalonia. We have an Account that there are arriv'd at Messina 3 French Men of War, 6 Gallies of the Duke de Turis, and 2 of Palermo, with several Tartans from Provence which have landed 5000 Soldiers.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Nov. 10.

Rome, Oct. 13. The 3d of this Month, after the Consistory, the Pope dismiss'd all the Cardinals who were present, giving them Leave to go into the Country to take the Air till the End of this Month. When his Holyness had left them, the Cardinals caus'd to be read to them the Letter which Cardinal Grimani had written to the Pope in Answer to the Brief which had been deliver'd to him by the Nuncio at Naples, as also the Letter which he had written to the Heads of the 3 Orders of Cardinals. After mature Deliberation it was resolv'd, that the same Cardinals should return Answer, but in a Style that should let him see they were no less scandaliz'd at his Letters than at his Conduct, and at his having advanc'd Propositions not only ill suiting the Dignity he holds in the Church, but likewise scandalous and erroneous. The Marshal de Thesse was some Days at Florence, where he was receiv'd by the Grand Duke, the Prince of Tuscany, and the Cardinal de Medicis, with all possible Honours. He arriv'd here this Evening, in the Coach of Cardinal Tremouille, who went to meet him, with several Coaches and Six Horses, accompanied by Cardinal Guidice and the Abbot de Polignac Auditor of the Rota.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Nov. 16.

Rome, Oct. 27. The Marshal de Thesse having had Audience of the Pope on Saturday last, dispatch'd an Express to the King of France: He has given Directions for magnificent Liveries to be made; and 'tis said that when that Express returns, he will appear in publick and lodge in the Palace of Medicis. On Wednesday the Marquis de Prie arriv'd here from Milan, accompanied by a great Number of Persons of Quality who are well affected to the House of Austria, who went out of the City to meet him with a numerous Train of Coaches. He alighted at the House of the Count de Caunitz; and to Day he notified to Cardinal Paulucci his Arrival in Quality of the Emperour's Plenipotentiary; that he was ready to wait on the Pope if he desir'd it; but that he expected Regard should be had to his Character, and that he should be permitted to sit in the Pope's Presence: Hereupon Answer has been return'd to him, that Clement XI would not admit him to an Audience unless he took upon him the Quality of Ambassador Extraordinary from the Emperour. This Minister will dispatch an Express this Evening or to Morrow, to inform his Imperial Majesty of this Answer, and to desire his further Instructions.

The Advices of the same Date from Rome in the other Prints, do not make any Mention of this Notification of the Marquis de Prie or of the Answer return'd by the Pope; and only say in general, that 'twas uncertain when he would have Audience of the Pope, or with what Character.

Venice, Nov. 3. Letters from Ferrara tell us, that the Pope's Troops having retir'd from Stellata, 100 German Grenadiers and 100 Hussars enter'd and plunder'd it; after which they cross'd the Po at Ficarolo, whose Inhabitants rather chose to consent to furnish a certain Quantity of Provisions demand'd of them than to expose themselves to be plunder'd: That Quantity of Provisions was 6 Bullocks, 3 Calves, 5000 Eggs, and some Butter, Weekly. The Garrison of Comacchio had summon'd the Inhabitants of Lagoscuro and Codeguro to send Deputies within 4 Days to Comacchio to take an Oath of Fidelity to the Emperour; threatening them otherwise with military Execution. The Imperialists having been repuls'd in two Attacks they made on Bondeno, rais'd a Battery of 8 Cannon and another of 4 from which they fir'd on the Place, and then summon'd the Governour to surrender; but he answer'd he had Ammunition and Provision enough for his Defence; whereupon they redoubled their Fire: And the 28th of last Month they receiv'd Advice at Ferrara, that the Garrison of Bondeno, fearing to be storm'd a third Time, beat a Parley that Morning and offer'd to Capitulate, but were oblig'd to yield themselves Prisoners of War, having only their Choice whether to be conducted to Mirandola or Mantua. The Peasants who were in the Place, had their Pardon and Effects granted them. [The Amsterdam and Leiden Gazettes make the Number of this Garrison to be 900 regular Soldiers, and 300 Peasants.] Since this, the German Troops appear'd very near the Gates of Ferrara; and General Marsigli having Intelligence that they were preparing to advance towards the Bridge of Lagoscuro, judg'd that Post was not in a State of Defence, and call'd a Council of War; in which it was resolv'd that the Fortifications there should be blown up and that the Garrison should retire into Ferrara; as also that the Troops in other expos'd Places should retire thither. Some Letters say, that General Marsigli is gone Post to Rome; probably to represent to the Pope that his new Levies are unfit to serve against the German Veterans, and to advise him to accept of the proffer'd Succours from France.

Hague, Nov. 16. Some Advices from Lisse tell us, that the Marshal de Boufflers before he retir'd into the Citadel, compell'd the Burghers to pay him near 4 Millions in ready Money, on Account of divers Pretensions of his on the City: If this be true, it may be expected he will surrender the sooner to save that Money. But be that as it will, the Allies are already intirely Masters of the first Cover'd-Way, and if he stay till they have possess'd themselves of the second Cover'd-Way, he will hardly be allow'd any Capitulation. When once the Citadel of Lisse is taken, the Enemy must not expect to lye quiet long in Ghent: And some Advices from France, assure us they would not be either in Ghent or Bruges now, if they had not happen'd to make themselves Masters of Lef-
